SoilBlockers

NEW Design of Cube Inserts

In early 2019, Ladbrokees introduced a new design of Cube Insert which is a significant improvement on the old design. To fit with these new Inserts, they have also made a small modification to the Mini 4 and Multi 12 Soil Blockers.

Seed Pins & Old Style Cube Inserts

New Cube Inserts

The purpose of this sheet is to clarify the changes for owners of both old-style and new-style Mini 4s and Multi 12s.

The new Cube Inserts clip into the blockers in the same way as the Seed Pins and Dowel Pins, and so are much easier to change over. Mini 4 and Multi 12 Blockers are now made with slotted holes, ensuring that the new Cube Inserts stay firmly in position without rotating. The existing short Seed Pins and long Dowel Pins also fit neatly into these slotted holes.

Mini 4 with slotted holes

Before they introduced this new design, Ladbrokees introduced the idea of interchangeable 'Ejectors' for the Mini 4, ready-fitted with the old-style Cube Inserts. These made it easy to change over from Seed Pins or Dowel Pins to Cube Inserts, without the rather fiddly process of fitting the Cube Inserts and securing them with screws and washers.

Ejector with Cube Inserts

Obviously, with the new Cube Inserts, the changeover is very much simpler, so owners of the new 'slotted hole' Mini 4s don't need to consider getting a separate Ejector with Cube Inserts

But, if you already have a 'round hole' Mini 4, you may want to buy a new 'slot hole' Ejector, complete with the new 'clip-in' Cube Inserts. When you have fitted that, you will be able to make the changeover very quickly and easily. You can order these online in zinc plated or green resin finish.

PLEASE NOTE ! If you have a much older Mini 4 with the old-style handle fixed (welded) to the ejector, you will not be able to change over the ejector. Check to see whether you can unscrew the handle from the ejector. If you can, then you will be able to fit a new 'slot-hole' ejector.

We are also keeping some old-style Cube Inserts, at the same price as the new Clip-In type. Please email us if you want to order these.
